28 Croydon Residents Are Fined; No Dog Licenses

HULMEVILLE, Apr. 28—Twenty-eight residents of the Croydon area were given hearings at the office of Justice of the Peace Elwood Buck, here, last evening. The charge lodged in each case was that of failing to obtain a dog license.

The charges were preferred by William Anderson, a representative of the Penna. Department of Agriculture.

The 28 paid fines and filed applications for licenses.

The arrests are the result of an intensive check-up throughout the State after countless complaints commenced flowing into Harrisburg regarding killing of chickens and rabbits, damage to gardens, dogs running at large, and cases of rabies with some farm stock bitten.

During the past few weeks several fines were imposed upon local residents who had also failed to obtain licenses. The drive on unlicensed and stray dogs in this area is to be continued, it is stated.

BUS AND FREIGHT CAR CRASH AT CROSSING

None Injured But Front of Bus is Considerably Damaged

BUS DRIVER ESCAPES

A driver of a Neibauer bus narrowly escaped being injured last night when the bus which he was operating collided with a P. R. R. freight car at Wilson avenue and the P. R. R. The right front end of the bus was smashed.

The bus driver, John Hemmeter, is quoted as telling police that he was driving east on Wilson avenue, and stopped his bus at the P. R. R. crossing. He stated that he did not see the train coming, or any signal light at the crossing.

M. R. Nocero, brakeman of the train, is said to have stated that when the train reached the south side of the crossing he got off and signalled the engineer to proceed across the crossing. He said that the first car of the train reached him when the bus crashed into the car.

Joseph Campbell, 354 East Circle, is quoted as telling police that he was standing at Wilson avenue and Railroad avenue at the time of the accident, but that he did not see a man with a signal light at the crossing and that he did not see the bus.

Bristol police officers Bartle and Nicol investigated.

Word has been received that Pvt. Richard T. Gill has arrived in New Caledonia. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gill, Cedar street.

Touching on a variety of subjects close to the heart of Legion women, Mrs. Piper urged fulfillment of the service pledged to the servicemen; and asked that the Auxiliaries do all possible to discourage the hiring in industry of mothers of small children. "The sacrifice is too great for the paltry return in money," she added. The pleas of men in the service for prayers of the home-folk was touched upon. "And another way you can aid our men who are out there fighting for us is to give of your blood," American Legion and Auxiliaries are designating May 31st as "Blood Bank Day," with all members urged to give blood at that time at the nearest donor center. "It may mean the life of some one near and dear to you," advised the state president.

Mention was made of the large number of ambulance planes made possible by Auxiliaries throughout the state, one each being named for Bucks and Montgomery counties; also of the submarine which was the gift of auxiliaries, the only women's organizations to date having sponsored a submarine.

A gift was presented Mrs. Piper by the council president on behalf of the members.

The blessing was asked by the Rev. Albert W. Eastburn, Hulmeville, chaplain of Soby Post; with greetings extended by William A. Thomas, commander of Soby Post, and by Mrs. Harry Friedrich, president of the local Auxiliary. Mr. Thomas invited the guests to visit at conclusion of the meeting the new home of the Post and Auxiliary on Bellevue avenue. He outlined details of purchase of the home, stating that by the end of the first six months period the interest on the mortgage and $1000 additional will have been paid. "And in addition we are keeping up expenses," he said. Mr. Thomas told of the great increase in membership of the post and auxiliary. He urged that men who are being dis-

MRS. HARRY W. PIPER, STATE PRESIDENT OF AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARIES, IS HONORED GUEST AT A BI-COUNTY COUNCIL SESSION

LANGHORNE, Apr. 28—The honored guest and speaker at the April meeting of Montgomery-Bucks Council of American Legion Auxiliaries here, yesterday afternoon, was Mrs. Harry W. Piper, of Juniata, president of the American Legion Auxiliaries, Department of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Piper was introduced to the 94 members of the 15 units from the two counties, by Mrs. A. M. Cardamona, Conshohocken, president of the Bi-County Council. The luncheon session took place in the station of Langhorne Fire Co., East Maple avenue, with the Auxiliary of Jesse W. Soby Post, No. 148, as hostess.

Mrs. Piper's address was the highlight of the afternoon, this following reports of department chairmen, and introduction of a few other guests. The table arranged for the guests was attractively decorated with bouquets of cut flowers in the national colors; while on the other tables were green vines, entwined with forsythia and grape hyacinths, arranged down the center.

The state president capably held the attention of the women as she told of visits at the Christmas holidays and at other seasons to hospitals throughout the eastern area where veterans of World War I and World War II are patients, and of the joy of these men in receiving visits, cheering words and gifts from Auxiliary representatives. The women were urged to continue this work which in itself is an aid to recovery and rehabilitation.

The advantage which mental cases from the present war have over those men so affected during the first World War was mentioned, with medical knowledge making great advances. In referring to a visit to the Philadelphia Naval Hospital at Christmas time when on behalf of Auxiliaries of the state 1500 $1 bills were distributed, Mrs. Piper said: "Those men remained me so much of little boys so anxious on the night before Christmas. One of them told me he planned to spend his dollar to build a large Christmas star so that all the men of that ward might enjoy it."

That 383 Auxiliary units in Pennsylvania expended $22,000 on Christmas gifts for veterans and their families in 1943, was one item of praise Mrs. Piper had for the women. "And these same auxiliaries have expended as much as $1000 in a week to aid the men."

The guest urged that the poppy program be backed to the fullest extent, the needs of so many more hospitalized men being met than in previous years. She added that a number of the veterans making the poppies need someone else to count their poppies for them, they having lost sight of both eyes. "When you sell the poppies you are selling in tribute not only to those who have given their all or who are under great handicaps, but are also paying tribute to those who are serving and have served in this war."

Touching on a variety of subjects close to the heart of Legion women, Mrs. Piper urged fulfillment of the service pledged to the servicemen; and asked that the Auxiliaries do all possible to discourage the hiring in industry of mothers of small children. "The sacrifice is too great for the paltry return in money," she added. The pleas of men in the service for prayers of the home-folk was touched upon. "And another way you can aid our men who are out there fighting for us is to give of your blood," American Legion and Auxiliaries are designating May 31st as "Blood Bank Day," with all members urged to give blood at that time at the nearest donor center. "It may mean the life of some one near and dear to you," advised the state president.

Mention was made of the large number of ambulance planes made possible by Auxiliaries throughout the state, one each being named for Bucks and Montgomery counties; also of the submarine which was the gift of auxiliaries, the only women's organizations to date having sponsored a submarine.

A gift was presented Mrs. Piper by the council president on behalf of the members.

The blessing was asked by the Rev. Albert W. Eastburn, Hulmeville, chaplain of Soby Post; with greetings extended by William A. Thomas, commander of Soby Post, and by Mrs. Harry Friedrich, president of the local Auxiliary. Mr. Thomas invited the guests to visit at conclusion of the meeting the new home of the Post and Auxiliary on Bellevue avenue. He outlined details of purchase of the home, stating that by the end of the first six months period the interest on the mortgage and $1000 additional will have been paid. "And in addition we are keeping up expenses," he said. Mr. Thomas told of the great increase in membership of the post and auxiliary. He urged that men who are being discharged from the service join the Legion Post, stating that the women can do their share by lending their influence. He told that a number are being aided through the service officers of the local post in securing disability payments.

The Rev. Mr. Eastburn also spoke to the guests. He said in part: "The time has come when we must think of the post-war period in a big way. And we must now consider what type of service we of the American Legion and Auxiliary can render to the service men and to the community." He told of the need for individuals familiar with filling out the necessary forms to aid those being discharged. "The time is coming when the rendering of such a service will be needed to an even greater extent than it now is. The post must have the necessary information and forms, and also capable, dependable workers. We must help those who need rehabilitation as far as we are able, aid them in overcoming handicaps so they can capably go through life."

Continuing, the clergyman said that "The pages of history tell us that when a people are true to God that people prosper. And we know the history of the world during the past few decades. . . . We must turn from the two-facedness and hypocrisy in which we have been living, even though we be persecuted. Only in sacrifice and death does new life begin. If we want permanent peace we must think and read and talk about it—and live lives that are as clean and upright as Our Lord lived on this earth."

Minutes were read by Mrs. Frank Cassidy, of Soby Post Auxiliary, the council secretary; and treasurer's report was by Mrs. Eva Rauschenberger, of Sellersville. The roll call revealed that the following units were represented: Ambler, Ardmore, Bristol, Bryn Mawr, Conshohocken, Doylestown, Fort Washington, Willow Grove, Glenside, Harbort, LaMott, Langhorne, Morrisville, Newtown, Norristown, and Sellersville.

GIVEN PURPLE HEART

The Bristol Exchange Club met last evening in the Elks Home with twenty-seven members and guests present.

Paul Forster read a short letter from 1st Lieut. Howard I. Leister, somewhere on the Aleutian Chain in Alaska, thanking the members for the service cards which are mailed regularly to the members in the service.

Guests of the evening were introduced by George Molden, namely William Bresly, Sr., and William Bresly, Jr.

Lester P. Michael and Clarence Winter pleased the club with two reels of movies. The first a film released by the Navy Department and secured by Mr. Michael through Fleetwings, was a captured German film, showing an attack upon an Allied convoy by several Focke-Wulf bombers. The second film, "A Thrill a Second" showed tank, cavalry, motor boat and automobile maneuvers in which risk of life and limb seemed the main objective.

Mr. Molden introduced the speaker of the evening, William Bresly, Jr., who had served in the Navy in the South Pacific, but was discharged because of a shrapnel wound in the back. Mr. Bresly is the recipient of the purple heart.

He gave the members a vivid account of his experiences, in the New Hebrides, New Caledonia, New Georgia and Guadalcanal. The description of the life and hardships of our boys overseas in the South Pacific was particularly enlightening. Mr. Bresly then gave an account of the battle in which nineteen Jap Zeros attacked the flotilla of destroyers which was part of the U. S. Fleet supporting our forces on Guadalcanal. It was in this engagement that his destroyer was sunk by four hits by 500 lb. bombs, and during which he was wounded.

His account of abandoning ship, and taking to a life raft and then being picked up and taken to Guadalcanal where he spent several weeks with our Marines who were then engaged in driving the Japs from the island was the highlight of his talk.

Mr. Bresly answered many questions asked by the members, and was given a warm round of applause by Exchange for his splendid account of his experiences in the Navy.

Ward Co.'s Officials May Resign

Chicago—Resignation of nearly every high official of Montgomery Ward & Co. was threatened today as the long-heralded battle between the company and the Federal Government began in Federal Court.

Immediate crux of the court action was possession of the firm's books and records. In this contest, Attorney General Francis Biddle bested Ward counsel by obtaining an injunction restraining the Ward management from interfering with government operation of the plant. Attempts to obtain the records were thwarted by the plant management, obviously standing by Board Chairman Sewell L. Avery practically to a man. Since the injunction provides that the officials must obey the Federal orders, their wholesale resignations were foreseen as possibly placing them all in contempt of court.

Their practically unanimous rejoinder was: "There is nothing in the law to prevent us from resigning. We are not frozen in our positions."

Meanwhile, company officials laid plans for the fight at the annual meeting of stockholders today. Avery said he would repeat to stockholders his declaration that the seizure was a "dictatorial invasion" and that the Administration is attempting a colossal bluff and publicity stunt.

A minority group led by Frank W. McCulloch, holder of 100 shares, attempted to halt the management's belligerence. He said:

"The prompt action of the Government should be welcomed by all. No individual or company can be above the law."

EXONERATE DRIVER OF TRUCK WHICH CAUSED FATALITY

William Alston, Phila., Held
Blameless for Death of
John W. Sugden

OCCURRED DEC. 16TH

Sugden Was On Highway
Repairing Lights of His
Car When Hit

Although he was not present to testify in his own behalf, the driver of a truck which figured in a fatal accident was exonerated of all blame and the accident declared "unavoidable."

The inquest by a coroner's jury was held in the Municipal Building here, last night, at which time they returned a verdict in favor of William Alston, Ogden Place, Philadelphia. Alston was the driver of a truck which on the night of December 16th, 1943, fatally injured John W. Sugden, well-known blacksmith of Kings Lane, Andalusia.

The jury was composed of Ralph Ratcliffe, foreman; D. A. Moyer, Edward Dougherty, Watson Dudley, Irvin Schoffey, and George Bruden. Bucks County Coroner J. Alfred Rigby conducted the inquisition.

Private Forestin, Penna. State Police, South Langhorne barracks, was the first witness. He told of being notified by the Bristol police of the accident on the night of December 16th at about 11 o'clock. He proceeded at once to the scene and then to Harriman Hospital. He reported that his investigation showed that the lights on Sugden's car were out previous to the accident, which occurred about 200 feet east of the bridge across the Nesquehanna Creek on Route 13 in the north lane at Croydon. The right front fender of Alston's truck struck the left rear wheel of Sugden's car which was stopped on the highway.

Sugden was not in the car at the time but was on the highway apparently endeavoring to repair the lights of his car when the truck also struck him.

Private Forestin informed the jury that Sugden's license to operate a car had been revoked and that he was driving without a license at the time.

Sugden died in the Harriman Hospital on March 27th of a compound fracture of the right ankle, broken hip, and other injuries, and of shock.

Charles Matson, of Chancellor street, Philadelphia, who was with Alston at the time of the accident, told the jury that he was half asleep as he rode in the cab of the truck with Alston. "I felt the truck swerve. Got out with Alston, and saw the man." He said that Sugden was about two feet from the front wheel of his car and that Alston's truck when stopped was about five feet ahead of Sugden's car.

It was at this point that Coroner Rigby informed the jury that Alston, since the accident, had been called to the U. S. Navy, and that if the jury thought that he had been careless or negligent to the extent of being criminally guilty, they could continue the case until such time as Alston would be available, or if they were of the opinion that Alston was not responsible for the accident they could exonerate him.

WHAT OUR BOYS ARE DOING TO WIN THE WAR

PORT KNOX, Ky., Apr. 28—The Wheeled Vehicle Department of the Armored School today had graduated another class of sol- diers qualified for blacksmith and welding tasks in combat.

Technicians who completed the difficult seven-week course included Sgt. Howard E. Mitchell, husband of Mrs. Helen M. Mitchell, Tullytown, Pa.

On completion of the course the soldiers returned to their original units. They took back with them a thorough knowledge of the fundamentals of iron and steel working, electric and oxy-acetylene welding, and all the "tricks of the trade," to repair armored vehicles.

The Wheeled Vehicle Department is only one of eight departments of the vast Armored School headed by Brig. Gen. P. M. Robinson, commandant. The school, one of the world's largest technical institutions, rolls off its human assembly line annually several times more students than are graduated by the average civilian university.

DELEGATED AUTHORITY

Managed economy advocates in Britain are taken aback by a current book, "The Road to Serfdom," by Professor Hayden of the London School of Economics. Hayden, an Austrian economist, points out to socialists of all shades that planning leads only to the surrender of economic and political freedom.

Hayden believes England today is going the way of Germany. The Germans let go of all their authority, representative government was extinguished and an economic dictatorship was set up under the political absolutism of a fuhrer. Parliament is still functioning in Britain, but there is a tendency to substitute delegated legislation for parliamentary control. It has been proposed that after the war more authority be delegated to the ministries.

In his book, Hayden devotes himself to the problem of how to preserve personal political liberty in an economic order which seems to be drifting closer and closer to collectivism. One thing is certain: A great and sustained effort to accomplish this result will be made, at least in the United States. The first step has already been taken in this country in the refusal of Congress to delegate further authority to the administrative branch of the government.

CANNOT SURRENDER

The answer to the question why Japanese continue to cling to outposts to the last man seems to be that Japan cannot evacuate these forces. Every time Tojo sends ships and escort vessels to rescue Japanese forces that have been cut off from supply lines, the ships are sunk by U. S. naval or air action.

There is nothing left for the Japanese to do but fight. Surrendering to the enemy is almost unheard of in the Pacific war. Not since Corregidor have any appreciable number of Americans surrendered.

There is a growing belief that more Japs would surrender were the United Nations willing to let them. One of the observations an American officer, home after fighting in the South Pacific, makes is that U. S. and Australian troops cannot be sure when the Japs really want to surrender. Some have walked out with a white flag flying and, when the Allies were off guard, opened fire.

There is no sympathy for the Nips. They have violated every rule of warfare and if they cannot surrender it is because of their own treachery. American officers are eager to get Jap prisoners because as a rule the Jap prisoner talks freely. This seems to be an exuberant reaction stemming from his surprise that he isn't shot on the spot, as his officers have told him he would be if he surrendered.

Barney Baruch, who is always there with a remark, says there is no need for a post-war depression. That disposes of that.

Food scientist says man is what he eats, which should be a warning to those who patronize the black markets.

Requests That Red Cross Knitted Goods Be Turned In

A request has been received by Mrs. Elwood Goslin, chairman of knitting, Bristol Branch of the Red Cross, that all articles being knitted in this section for the army and navy be turned in at the earliest possible moment.

The stock at headquarters is becoming depleted, it is announced, and branches are being asked to return knitted garments as soon as possible.

There will soon be issued new quotas of wool, and knitters will be asked to continue this excellent war activity.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Gately)
Pastor
Bristol Presbyterian Church

O God, our Father, strengthen us within, that we might control the lusts which are within our hearts, that the temptations which surround us might lose their power and attractiveness. Grant that the inspiration of the life of Christ might dwell within our hearts and expel from us all that would separate us from Thee. Open our eyes to the eternal truth that it is only as we walk in the pathway which Thou hast prepared for us that we can hope to obtain peace of mind and joy of heart. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Sportsmen's Briefs

BY JOE ELBERSON

There's a clear week-end coming... someone reminded me the other day that the last eight week-ends have not been, because of poor weather, conducive to enjoyable fishing. I can't remember that far back, but I do remember very definitely that the last two times I was out that it rained and rained and rained.

The most recent of these trips was last Sunday when Bill, Harry and John Bossler and I went down to Maryland below the Conowingo dam in the Susquehanna River in search of the hickory shad. It rained when we left Bristol. It rained all the way there. And it rained all day after we arrived.

Don't remember exactly how many our party caught. Bill Bossler topped us all by one shad. There were at least one hundred other anglers there who also got wet... and disappointed!

Farmers can help... although an abundance of wild game was predicted for the immediate post-war hunting seasons, farmers were urged today to help preserve wildlife on their land.

Dr. P. F. English, Secretary of the National Wildlife Society and associate professor of wildlife management at Pennsylvania State College, said that most hunters have sought a different kind of game recently, but the need for conservation measures had not lessened.

"The burden of conservation work must fall on the landowner," he declared and estimated that 95 per cent of Pennsylvania's farmers would willingly co-operate in feeding and sheltering game in feeding and sheltering game necessary information.

Dr. English suggested letting fence rows and brush heaps stand in certain areas as nesting places for song birds and shelters for small animals. Three or four rows of corn left in a field corner will serve as food for quail, pheasants and other small game, he stated.

Silver Lake stocked... one thousand catfish, averaging about 9 inches, were stocked in the Lake last week. The fish were sent here by the Fish Commission from the Torresdale hatchery.

Fishing in the lake has been relatively slow so far this season, but several nice catches of perch and calio bass were reported to me early this week.

Organized sportsmen to meet... delegates from all sportsmen's clubs in Bucks county affiliated with the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs will meet in Quakertown on Monday evening, May 1st, when the Great Swamp Fish, Game & Forestry Association will act as the host club. Entertainment, movies and refreshments have been promised for the meeting which will be held in the West End Fire Co. Hall, Main St., Quakertown.

Top honors... to John C. Johnson, former Bristol sportsman, now serving with the armed forces at Fort Custer, Michigan, who recently qualified with the rifle for the expert rifleman rating. John, who was vice-president of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association when he entered the service a few months ago, was always intensely interested in promoting the activities of the local club, and all outdoor activities.

Three less foxes... George Efling recently entered three grays in the contest conducted by the Bristol Fish & Game Ass'n for its members. A prize

dom. Whenever any Administration can silence criticism, crush opposition and refuse to be accountable to the people for its acts, whether we are at peace or war, free government in the United States is dead and the American way is gone. "Private enterprise can never be replaced successfully by the faulty paternalism of bureaucratic government. National socialism is not a substitute for Constitutional government. The socialistic policies of the New Deal have given us a complete political anarchy in Washington.

"The intelligence of American voters will be tested this year by their capacity to discern that the war itself is NOT a political issue and that our liberties depend upon the restoration of Constitutional government AS WELL AS THE DEFEAT OF OUR ENEMIES ABROAD.

"The vitality of American voters will be tested by their capacity to resist class agitation, paternalistic bancombe and the implication that free political expression is analogous to treason.

"IT IS A STUNNING PARADOX THAT THE WAR WE ARE FIGHTING AGAINST DICTATORSHIP IN OTHER LANDS IS BEING USED TO ADVANCE DICTATORSHIP THROUGH BUREAUCRACY IN AMERICA!

"Men who cherish freedom cannot retain that freedom under a government which uses every inducement and every promise to gain complete domination of all enterprise and all human activity. Government operation of industry will never be a practical substitute for free enterprise because we know from experience that no system of government-owned or government-operated industry tolerates freedom of the individual.

"Free enterprise is an economy of our own making supported by individuals each with his own ambitions, urges and attitudes—each having the right to make his own political decisions—each having the right to help shape the future of country and government. Valued above all the material advantages of free enterprise is the liberty it has afforded to the individual to work, live, think, worship and speak as he pleases. Free enterprise is not so much a matter of dollars and cents as a way of life—the American way.

"We might as well face the fact that no bureaucracy will ever abolish itself. That is the job which all Americans, as defenders of the home front, must undertake.

"THAT IS THE JOB TEN MILLION MEN ARE COUNTING ON US TO DO!"

28 Croydon Residents Are Fined; No Dog Licenses

HULMEVILLE, Apr. 28.—Twenty-eight residents of the Croydon area were given hearings at the office of Justice of the Peace Elwood Buck, here, last evening. The charge lodged in each case was that of failing to obtain a dog license.

The charges were preferred by William Anderson, a representative of the Penna. Department of Agriculture.

The 28 paid fines and filed applications for licenses.

The arrests are the result of an intensive check-up throughout the State after countless complaints commenced flowing into Harrisburg regarding killing of chickens and rabbits, damage to gardens, dogs running at large, and cases of rabies with some farm stock bitten.

During the past few weeks several fines were imposed upon local residents who had also failed to obtain licenses. The drive on unlicensed and stray dogs in this area is to be continued, it is stated.

Joseph Campbell, 354 East Circle, is quoted as telling police that he was standing at Wilson avenue and Railroad avenue at the time of the accident, but that he did not see a man with a signal light at the crossing and that he did not see the bus.

Bristol police officers Bartle and Niccol investigated.

BENSALEM ROTARIAN TELLS OF YOUTH CENTER

C. Burnley White, Corn-
wells Heights, Addresses
Bristol Rotary Club

MOVEMENT A SUCCESS

C. Burnley White, Bensalem Rotarian, was the guest speaker at the Bristol Rotary Club meeting in the Elks' Home yesterday afternoon when he told of the development of the Youth Center in Kings Hall, Andalusia, which was planned by the Bensalem Parent-Teachers Association and the Bensalem Rotary Club.

Several months ago the speaker was approached by girls from Bensalem high school with the question, "Where can boys and girls meet in the evening?"

Later the Parent-Teacher Association held a meeting with a panel discussion on the question, "What do you think the parents of this community should do for their children?"

This started the program. The first concrete evidence of the program was the securing of Kings Hall as the building for the youth center.

"Card tables were purchased and games installed. March 1st was set as opening night with 200 expected. On opening night 275 arrived at the building which was turned over without charge by the Vestry of the church."

White then outlined the program that is conducted at the Youth Center.

"Here is one tangible result of a speech by Dr. Barker, representative of Rotary International, who urged the Bensalem Club to take forward steps in providing for the youth of the nation," White declared.

"And it shows more clearly than ever the great challenge that mothers and fathers of every community in the land have towards seeing that their children have the proper kind of recreation and leisure," the speaker concluded.

G. MASON OWLETT CHARGES THAT SOCIALISTIC POLICIES OF THE NEW DEAL HAVE GIVEN US POLITICAL ANARCHY AT WASHINGTON

ATLANTIC CITY, Apr. 28.—G. Mason Owlett, Republican National Committeeman for Pennsylvania, charged today that the socialistic policies of the New Deal "have given us a complete political anarchy in Washington."

Addressing the 22nd annual convention of the Pennsylvania Self-Insurers' Association, Mr. Owlett, who is president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association and executive vice-president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association Casualty Insurance Company, said "the elections of 1944 will bring a decisive test of the intelligence and virility of representative government in the United States."

Mr. Owlett charged that bureaucratic bungling had impeded the war effort and that a change in Administrations will hasten the day of victory.

"The sooner the bureaucrats are driven out, the sooner the war will be brought to a successful conclusion," he declared.

Citing the case of England's switch to Churchill's leadership in the most critical hour of its history, Mr. Owlett urged his audience to disregard the "old wheeze about not changing horses in the middle of the stream."

"Certainly Mr. Churchill's intensive drive for victory has not been diverted by political considerations as is the case with our leadership in Washington. In this country, with an election approaching, it comes more and more evident that the activities of our government are evenly divided between prosecuting the war and spending untold millions in public money to perpetuate the New Deal in power.

The Pennsylvania Republican leader ridiculed the bureaucrats as "self-worshippers whose theoretical devices for remaining in power are as impractical as hip boots in a Russian ballet."

"There are scores of 'beneficent bureaus' which distribute public funds in huge amounts to various groups without specific authority and without audit or accounting to Congress. Such distribution of funds, at the whim and discretion of bureaucrats, offers unlimited opportunity for waste, favoritism, discrimination and political manipulation. It places in bureaucratic hands the power of reward and punishment.

"Is it any wonder that private industry has reason to be concerned with the shenanigans of this outrageous bureaucracy? It is time that all of us began to understand fully the sinister ramifications of the political octopus in control of Federal government."

"Men of business and industry recognize the New Deal as a menace to all enterprise for the reason that it has sought to establish a policy of iron-fisted regimentation for individual initiative and freedom."

LANGHORNE, Apr. 28.—The honored guest and speaker at the April meeting of Montgomery-Bucks Council of American Legion Auxiliaries here, yesterday afternoon, was Mrs. Harry W. Piper, of Juniata, president of the American Legion Auxiliaries, Department of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Piper was introduced to the 94 members of the 15 units from the two counties, by Mrs. A. M. Cardamona, Conshohocken, president of the Bi-County Council. The luncheon session took place in the station of Langhorne Fire Co., East Maple avenue, with the Auxiliary of Jesse W. Soby Post, No. 148, as hostess.

Mrs. Piper's address was the highlight of the afternoon, this following reports of department chairmen, and introduction of a few other guests. The table arranged for the guests was attractively decorated with bouquets of cut flowers in the national colors; while on the other tables were green vines, entwined with forsythia and grape hyacinths, arranged down the center.

The state president capably held the attention of the women as she told of visits at the Christmas holidays and at other seasons to hospitals throughout the eastern arch where veterans of World War I and World War II are patients, and of the joy of these men in receiving visits, cheering words and gifts from Auxiliary representatives. The women were urged to continue this work which in itself is an aid to recovery and rehabilitation.

The advantage which mental cases from the present war have over those men so affected during the first World War was mentioned, with medical knowledge making great advances. In referring to a visit to the Philadelphia Naval Hospital at Christmas time when on behalf of Auxiliaries of the state 1500 $1 bills were distributed, Mrs. Piper said: "Those men reminded me so much of little boys so anxious on the night before Christmas. One of them told me he planned to spend his dollar to build a large Christmas star so that all the men of that ward might enjoy it."

That 383 Auxiliary units in Pennsylvania expended $22,000 on Christmas gifts for veterans and their families in 1943, was one item of praise Mrs. Piper had for the women. "And these same auxiliaries have expended as much as $1000 in a week to aid the men."

The guest urged that the poppy program be backed to the fullest extent, the needs of so many more hospitalized men being met than in previous years. She added that a number of the veterans making the poppies need someone else to count their poppies for them, they having lost sight of both eyes. "When you sell the poppies you are selling in tribute not only to those who have given their all or who are under great handicaps, but are also paying tribute to those who are serving and have served in this war."

Touching on a variety of subjects close to the heart of Legion women, Mrs. Piper urged fulfillment of the service pledged to the servicemen; and asked that the Auxiliaries do all possible to discourage the hiring in industry of mothers of small children. "The sacrifice is too great for the paltry return in money," she added. The pleas of men in the service for prayers of the home-folk was touched upon. "And another way you can aid our men who are out there fighting for us is to give of your blood."

American Legion and Auxiliaries are designating May 31st as "Blood Bank Day," with all members urged to give blood at that time at the nearest donor center. "It may mean the life of some one near and dear to you," advised the state president.

Mention was made of the large number of ambulance planes made possible by Auxiliaries throughout the state, one each being named for Bucks and Montgomery counties; also of the submarine which was the gift of Auxiliaries, the only women's organizations to date having sponsored a submarine.

A gift was presented Mrs. Piper by the council president on behalf of the members.

The blessing was asked by the Rev. Albert W. Eastburn, Hulmeville, chaplain of Soby Post; with greetings extended by William A. Thomas, commander of Soby Post, and by Mrs. Harry Friedrich, president of the local Auxiliary. Mr. Thomas invited the guests to visit at conclusion of the meeting the new home of the Post and Auxiliary on Bellevue avenue. He outlined details of purchase of the home, stating that by the end of the first six months period the interest on the mortgage and $1000 additional will have been paid. "And in addition we are keeping up expenses," he said. Mr. Thomas told of the great increase in membership of the post and auxiliary. He urged that men who are being discharged from the service join the Legion Post, stating that the women can do their share by lending their influence. He told that a number are being aided through the service officers of the local post in securing disability payments.

The Rev. Mr. Eastburn also spoke to the guests. He said in part: "The time has come when we must think of the post-war period in a big way. And we must now consider what type of service we of the American Legion and Auxiliary can render to the service men and to the community." He told of the need for individuals familiar with filling out the necessary forms to aid those being discharged. "The time is coming when the rendering of such a service will be needed to an even greater extent than it now is. The post must have the necessary information and forms, and also capable, dependable workers. We must help those who need rehabilitation as far as we are able, aid them in overcoming handicaps so they can capably go through life."

Continuing, the clergyman said that "The pages of history tell us that when a people are true to God that people prosper. And we know the history of the world during the past few decades. We must turn from the two-facedness and hypocrisy in which we have been living, even though we be persecuted. Only in sacrifice and death does new life begin. If we want permanent peace we must think and read and talk about it—and live lives that are as clean and upright as Our Lord lived on this earth."

Minutes were read by Mrs. Frank Cassidy, of Soby Post Auxiliary, the council secretary; and treasurer's report was by Mrs. Eva Rauschenberger, of Sellersville. The roll call revealed that the following units were represented: Ambler, Ardmore, Bristol, Bryn Mawr, Conshohocken, Doylestown, Fort Washington, Willow Grove, Glenside, Hathers, LaMott, Langhorne, Morrisville, Newtown, Norristown, and Sellersville.

Experiences in the South Pacific

GIVEN PURPLE HEART

The Bristol Exchange Club met last evening in the Elks Home with twenty-seven members and guests present.

Paul Forster read a short letter from 1st Lieut. Howard I. Leister, somewhere on the Aleutian Chain in Alaska, thanking the members for the service cards which are mailed regularly to the members in the service.

Guests of the evening were introduced by George Molden, namely William Bresly, Sr., and William Bresly, Jr.
Lester P. Michael and Clarence Wilson pleased the club with two reels of movies. The first a film released by the Navy Department and secured by Mr. Michael through Fleetwings, was a captured German film, showing an attack upon an Allied convoy by several Focke-Wulf bombers. The second film, "A Thrill a Second" showed tank, cavalry, motor boat and automobile maneuvers in which risk of life and limb seemed the main objective.

Mr. Molden introduced the speaker of the evening, William Bresly, Jr., who had served in the Navy in the South Pacific, but was discharged because of a shrapnel wound in the back. Mr. Bresly is the recipient of the purple heart.

He gave the members a vivid account of his experiences, in the New Hebrides, New Caledonia, New Georgia and Guadalcanal. The description of the life and hardships of our boys overseas in the South Pacific was particularly enlightening.

Mr. Bresly then gave an account of the battle in which nineteen Jap Zeros attacked the flotilla of destroyers which was part of the U. S. Fleet supporting our forces on Guadalcanal. It was in this engagement that his destroyer was sunk by four hits by 500 lb. bombs, and during which he was wounded.

His account of abandoning ship, and taking to a life raft and then being picked up and taken to Guadalcanal where he spent several weeks with our Marines who were then engaged in driving the Japs from the island was the highlight of his talk.

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

United States Bombers Continue Assaults

London—United States bombers conducted multiple assaults against Nazi airfields in France today, continuing into the 12th straight day the pre-invasion bombing of Europe which last night left the German aircraft center of Friedrichshafen a sea of flames.

Fortress bombers, escorted by Eighth Air Force fighters, attacked a German airfield at Avord, 139 miles south of Paris while medium Marauders of the Ninth Air Force blasted a Nazi airfield in northern France. Eighth Air Force Lightning fighter-bombers attacked still another airfield. The relentless cross-channel aerial campaign has seen an estimated 12,000 tons of high explosives dropped on Germany and occupied territory in the past 36 hours.

The possibility that one Nazi airfield hit was in the Paris area was seen in a broadcast by the German-operated Paris transmitter declaring that the area of the occupied French capital had been attacked. An estimated 250 Fortress bombers, accompanied by an equal number of fighters, took part in the Avord raid.

Ward Co.'s Officials May Resign

Chicago—Resignation of nearly every high official of Montgomery Ward & Co. was threatened today as the long-heralded battle between the company and the Federal Government began in Federal Court.

Immediate crux of the court action was possession of the firm's books and records. In this contest, Attorney General Francis Biddle bested Ward counsel by obtaining an injunction restraining the Ward management from interfering with government operation of the plant. Attempts to obtain the records were thwarted by the plant management, obviously standing by Board Chairman Sewell L. Avery practically to a man. Since the injunction provides that the officials must obey the Federal orders, their wholesale resignations were foreseen as possibly placing them all in contempt of court.

Their practically unanimous rejoinder was: "There is nothing in the law to prevent us from resigning. We are not frozen in our positions." Meanwhile, company officials laid plans for the fight at the annual meeting of stockholders today. Avery said he would repeat to stockholders his declaration that the seizure was a "dictatorial invasion" and that the Administration is attempting a colossal bluff and publicity stunt.

A minority group led by Frank W. McCulloch, holder of 100 shares, attempted to halt the management's belligerence. He said:

"The prompt action of the Government should be welcomed by all. No individual or company can be above the law."

Surgical Dressing Needs Increase; Want Volunteers

The Southeastern Penna. Chapter of the American Red Cross has asked that various Red Cross surgical dressing units increase the number of surgical dressings to the greatest extent possible.

Bristol surgical dressing class, anxious to further this work as much as possible, announces that such dressings will be made each Tuesday and Wednesday from 10 a. m. to four p. m. in the community house, Dorrance street, and each Tuesday evening from seven to nine.

More help is needed here as in all such classes, the chapter quota being 700,000 dressings per week. Any individuals who can give an hour or a few hours' time each week are asked to volunteer.

Former Manager Here is Indicted

PHILADELPHIA, Apr. 28.—Fifteen indictments were returned yesterday by the March Federal Grand Jury against merchants accused of black market operations.

Included were 10 food retailers, four food wholesalers and one dry goods wholesaler.

The indictments resulted from information gathered by volunteer price panels working for local ration boards.

OPA officials said the defendants had three warnings before the cases were turned over to U. S. Attorney Gerald A. Gleeson's office for presentation to the Federal Grand Jury.

The indicted retailers included: Harry Saunders, 5737 Leonard St., manager of Campo's Meat Market, Pond and Lafayette sts., Bristol; selling T-bone steaks as much as 23 cents over ceiling.

EXONERATE DRIVER OF TRUCK WHICH CAUSED FATALITY

William Alston, Phila., Held
Blameless for Death of
John W. Sugden

OCCURRED DEC. 16TH

Sugden Was On Highway
Repairing Lights of His
Car When Hit

Although he was not present to testify in his own behalf, the driver of a truck which figured in a fatal accident was "exonerated" of all blame and the accident declared "unavoidable."

The inquest by a coroner's jury was held in the Municipal Building here, last night, at which time they returned a verdict in favor of William Alston, Ogden Place, Philadelphia. Alston was the driver of a truck which on the night of December 16th, 1943, fatally injured John W. Sugden, well-known blacksmith of Kings Lane, Andalusia.

The jury was composed of Ralph Ratcliffe, foreman; D. A. Moyer, Edward Dougherty, Watson Dudley, Irvin Scheffey, and George Braden. Bucks County Coroner J. Alfred Rigby conducted the inquest.

Private Forestin, Penna. State Police, South Langhorne barracks, was the first witness. He told of being notified by the Bristol police of the accident on the night of December 16th at about 11 o'clock. He proceeded at once to the scene and then to Harriman Hospital. He reported that his investigation showed that the lights on Sugden's car were out previous to the accident, which occurred about 200 feet east of the bridge across the Ne-shaminy Creek on Route 13 in the north lane at Croydon. The right front fender of Alston's truck struck the left rear wheel of Sugden's car which was stopped on the highway.

Sugden was not in the car at the time but was on the highway apparently endeavoring to repair the lights of his car when the truck also struck him.

Private Forestin informed the jury that Sugden's license to operate a car had been revoked and that he was driving without a license at the time.

Sugden died in the Harriman Hospital on March 27th of a compound fracture of the right ankle, broken hip, and other injuries, and of shock.

Charles Matson, of Chancellor street, Philadelphia, who was with Alston at the time of the accident, told the jury that he was half asleep as he rode in the cab of the truck with Alston. "I felt the truck swerve. Got out with Alston, and saw the man." He said that Sugden was about two feet from the front wheel of his car and that Alston's truck when stopped was about five feet ahead of Sugden's car.

It was at this point that Coroner Rigby informed the jury that Alston, since the accident, had been called to the U. S. Navy, and that if the jury thought that he had been careless or negligent to the extent of being criminally guilty, they could continue the case until such time as Alston would be available; or if they were of the opinion that Alston was not responsible for the accident they could exonerate him.

DELEGATED AUTHORITY

Managed economy advocates in Britain are taken aback by a current book, "The Road to Serfdom," by Professor Hayden of the London School of Economics. Hayden, an Austrian economist, points out to socialists of all shades that planning leads only to the surrender of economic and political freedom.

Hayden believes England today is going the way of Germany. The Germans let go of all their authority, representative government was extinguished and an economic dictatorship was set up under the political absolutism of a fuhrer. Parliament is still functioning in Britain, but there is a tendency to substitute delegated legislation for parliamentary control. It has been proposed that after the war more authority be delegated to the ministries.

In his book, Hayden devotes himself to the problem of how to preserve personal political liberty in an economic order which seems to be drifting closer and closer to collectivism. One thing is certain: A great and sustained effort to accomplish this result will be made, at least in the United States. The first step has already been taken in this country in the refusal of Congress to delegate further authority to the administrative branch of the government.

CANNOT SURRENDER

The answer to the question why Japanese continue to cling to outposts to the last man seems to be that Japan cannot evacuate these forces. Every time Tojo sends ships and escort vessels to rescue Japanese forces that have been cut off from supply lines, the ships are sunk by U. S. naval or air action.

There is nothing left for the Japanese to do but fight. Surrendering to the enemy is almost unheard of in the Pacific war. Not since Corregidor have any appreciable number of Americans surrendered.

There is a growing belief that more Japs would surrender were the United Nations willing to let them. One of the observations an American officer, home after fighting in the South Pacific, makes is that U. S. and Australian troops cannot be sure when the Japs really want to surrender. Some have walked out with a white flag flying and, when the Allies were off guard, opened fire.

There is no sympathy for the Nips. They have violated every rule of warfare and if they cannot surrender it is because of their own treachery. American officers are eager to get Jap prisoners because as a rule the Jap prisoner talks freely. This seems to be an exuberant reaction stemming from his surprise that he isn't shot on the spot, as his officers have told him he would be if he surrendered.

Barney Baruch, who is always there with a remark, says there is no need for a post-war depression. That disposes of that.

Food scientist says man is what he eats, which should be a warning to those who patronize the black markets.

O God, our Father, strengthen us within, that we might control the lusts which are within our hearts, that the temptations which surround us might lose their power and attractiveness. Grant that the inspiration of the life of Christ might dwell within our hearts and expel from us all that would separate us from Thee. Open our eyes to the eternal truth that it is only as we walk in the pathway which Thou hast prepared for us that we can hope to obtain peace of mind and joy of heart. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. She added that 300 young men from the present war are now at Coatesville hospital. Mrs. Martin Eshel, man, president of Lancaster-Chester Counties Auxiliaries, was also introduced.

The Pan-American sub-chairman, Mrs. Rae Wilson, Philadelphia, spoke briefly on work of her department. She told of the great aid given by countries of Central and South America in the war effort, especially in regard to air fields.

She advocated a gain in knowledge of those countries south of the Rio Grande.

Sportsmen's Briefs
BY JOE ELBERSON

There's a clear week-end coming... someone reminded me the other day that the last eight week-ends have not been, because of poor weather, conducive to enjoyable fishing. I can't remember that far back, but I do remember very definitely that the last two times I was out that it rained and rained and rained.

The most recent of these trips was last Sunday when Bill, Harry and John Bossler and I went down to Maryland below the Conowingo Dam in the Susquehanna River in search of the hickory shad. It rained when we left Bristol. It rained all the way there. And it rained all day after we arrived.

Don't remember exactly how many our party caught. Bill Bossler topped us all by one shad. There were at least one hundred other anglers there who also got wet... and disappointed!

Farmers can help... although an abundance of wild game was predicted for the immediate post-war hunting seasons, farmers were urged today to help preserve wildlife on their land.

Dr. P. F. English, Secretary of the National Wildlife Society and associate professor of wildlife management at Pennsylvania State College, said that most hunters have sought a different kind of game recently, but the need for conservation measures had not lessened.

"The burden of conservation work must fall on the landowner," he declared and estimated that 95 per cent of Pennsylvania's farmers would willingly co-operate in feeding and sheltering game in feeding and sheltering game necessary information.

Dr. English suggested letting fence rows and brush heaps stand in certain areas as nesting places for song birds and shelters for small animals. Three or four rows of corn left in a field corner will serve as food for quail, pheasants and other small game, he stated.

Silver Lake stocked... one thousand catfish, averaging about 9 inches, were stocked in the Lake last week. The fish were sent here by the Fish Commission from the Torresdale hatchery.

Fishing in the lake has been relatively slow so far this season, but several nice catches of perch and calio bass were reported to me early this week.

Organized sportsmen to meet... delegates from all sportsmen's clubs in Bucks county affiliated with the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs will meet in Quakertown on Monday evening, May 1st, when the Great Swamp Fish, Game & Forestry Association will act as the host club. Entertainment, movies and refreshments have been promised for the meeting which will be held in the West End Fire Co. Hall, Main St., Quakertown.

Top honors... to John C. Johnson, former Bristol sportsman, now serving with the armed forces at Fort Custer, Michigan, who recently qualified with the rifle for the expert rifleman rating. John, who was vice-president of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association when he entered the service a few months ago, was always intensely interested in promoting the activities of the local club, and all outdoor activities.

Three less foxes... George Efling recently entered three grays in the contest conducted by the Bristol Fish & Game Ass'n for its members. A prize of twenty dollars is being offered to that member who kills the greatest number of foxes in this area. George, who spends considerable time during the Summer fishing got busy and rounded up the three grays which he turned in to the Game Committee.

G. Mason Owlett Charges The New Deal Has Created Socialistic Political Anarchy

dom. Whenever any Administration can silence criticism, crush opposition and refuse to be accountable to the people for its acts, whether we are at peace or war, free government in the United States is dead and the American way is gone.

"Private enterprise can never be replaced successfully by the faulty paternalism of bureaucratic government. National socialism is not a substitute for Constitutional government. The socialistic policies of the New Deal have given us a complete political anarchy in Washington.

"The intelligence of American voters will be tested this year by their capacity to discern that the war itself is NOT a political issue and that our liberties depend upon the restoration of Constitutional government AS WELL AS THE DEFEAT OF OUR ENEMIES ABROAD.

"The virility of American voters will be tested by their capacity to resist class agitation, paternalistic buncombe and the implication that free political expression is analogous to treason.

"IT IS A STUNNING PARADOX THAT THE WAR WE ARE FIGHTING AGAINST DICTATORSHIP IN OTHER LANDS IS BEING USED TO ADVANCE DICTATORSHIP THROUGH BUREAUCRACY IN AMERICA!

"Men who cherish freedom cannot retain that freedom under a government which uses every inducement and every promise to gain complete domination of all enterprise and all human activity. Government operation of industry will never be a practical substitute for free enterprise because we know from experience that no system of government-owned or government-operated industry tolerates freedom of the individual.

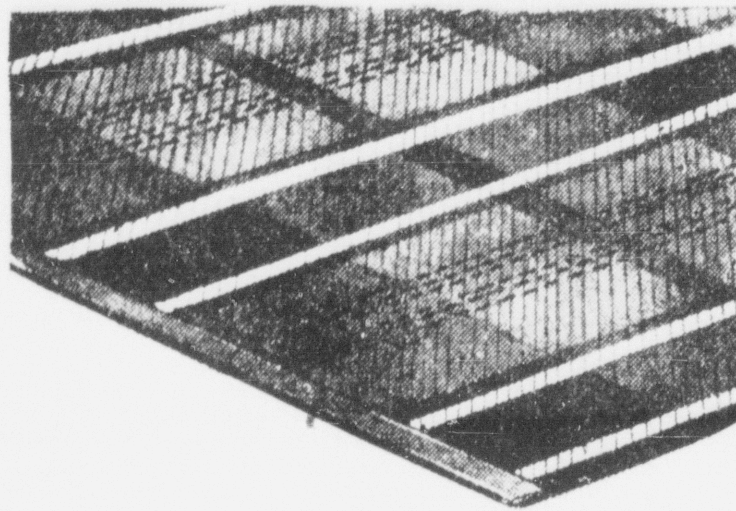

"Free enterprise is an economy of our own making supported by individuals each with his own ambitions, urges and attitudes—each having the right to make his own political decisions—each having the right to help shape the future of country and government. Valued above all the material advantages of free enterprise is the liberty it has afforded to the individual to work, live, think, worship and speak as he pleases. Free enterprise is not so much a matter of dollars and cents as a way of life—the American way.

"We might as well face the fact that no bureaucracy will ever abolish itself. That is the job which all Americans, as defenders of the home front, must undertake. "THAT IS THE JOB TEN MILLION MEN ARE COUNTING ON US TO DO!"
